ECLIPSES FOR THE YEAR 1884.

There will be five Eclipses this year. Three of the Sun and two of the Moon.

The first is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, the 27th of March, at 12 o'clock 42 min., in the morning; hence invisible here; visible in Iceland, and at the North Pole.

The second is a total Eclipse of the Moon, the 10th of April, at 6 o'clock 6 min., in the morning; visible at Philadelphia in a small degree; at Elkhart, Ind., at 5 o'clock 4 min.; in Lincoln, Neb., at 4 o'clock 24 min.; in Manitoba, at 4 o'clock 8 min., in the morning.

The third is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, the 25th of April, at 9 o'clock 2 min., in the morning; invisible here; visible on the Southern Atlantic Ocean, in Patagonia, and at Cape of Good Hope.

The fourth is a total Eclipse of the Moon, the 4th of October; Moon rises obscured at Philadelphia; ends at 6 o'clock 49 min.; ends at Elkhart at 6 o'clock 9 min., in the evening; at Lincoln Neb., and in Manitoba the Eclipse is ended when the Moon rises.

The fifth is a partial Eclipse of the Sun, the 18th of October, at 6 o'clock 38 min., in the evening; hence, invisible here; visible in Kamtchatka, and on the Northern Pacific Ocean.

THE SUN IS THE RULING PLANET THIS YEAR.

THE YEAR IN GENERAL.—The Solar year is dry throughout, a little damp, and tolerably warm.

SPRING.—Will be temperate, in the beginning tolerably humid, especially in April it will be very changeable; May will be pleasant and dry, but near its close it will be chilly with frost; hence the sheep should be kept off the grain, and as much as possible from the meadows.

SUMMER.—June will not be too secure from frost, besides it will be very dry. The beginning of August will be windy, afterwards, clear and calm. The days will be hot, but the nights cool. The Summer in general will be pleasant, yet it will end with tempestuous weather.

FALL AND WINTER.—Will be agreeable, dry and fine; frost and freezing will be early, yet the cold will be moderate; rough unpleasant weather in the beginning, which will soon change for the better. February will begin with pleasant weather, and will end very cold, which will continue in March.

SPRING CROPS—Must be sown as early as possible.

Barley and oats will grow very slowly, yet good in grain. But few peas and beans, unless planted in well manured, moist ground. Flax and hemp will be thin and short. Very little hay. Sheep should be kept from the pasture early in the Spring. Aftermath will be good. Cabbage and turnips will be poor on account of drought.

FALL CROPS.—The yield of wheat and corn will be small, but the quality very good. Suffer no sheep on the grain in the Spring.

FALL SEEDING.—The fall sowing should be put in deep, so that in the following hard winter it will not freeze out. It will not be necessary to sow very early.

FRUIT.—Pears will yield better than apples. Cherries, nuts, quinces, and acorns, abundant. Corn, buckwheat, rice, and tobacco will grow well. Potatoes, cabbage, and turnips, middling.

GRAPE CULTURE.—If in the preceding year grapes did not yield well, they will do well this year, for Mars, the Sun, and Venus following, make every seven years a good wine year.

THE ZOAN OF THE BIBLE.

In Egypt, as well as in Palestine, modern research is illustrating and confirming the records of the sacred writers. The Athenæum says that the Egypt Exploration Fund purposes to undertake, as the object of next expedition, the excavation of the vast mounds of San, the Zoan of the Bible, the Tanis of the Greeks.

The ruins of this famous city are as yet scarcely touched by the spade of the explorer, and the mounds, among the most extensive in Egypt, promise a rich harvest in objects of Biblical and other historical interest. Here, in the nearest large city to the land of Goshen, it is reasonable to expect that exploration may be rewarded by the discovery of documents bearing on the history of the Hebrews during the four hundred and thirty years of the sojourn, respecting which the Bible is almost silent. It is even possible that monuments and interments of the Hebrews during the time of their prosperity may be brought to light. Here lies buried the lost history of the mysterious Hyksos, or Shepherd-kings, who are supposed to have ruled Egypt for upwards of five hundred years. It was at San that Mariette found those remarkable monuments now in the Boorlak Museum, which have revealed the artistic style of those foreign rulers, portrayed their peculiar type of race, and given us a glimpse of their historical reality. The one Shepherd-king whose name occurs upon those monuments as the great builder of Zoan, is the traditional Pharaoh of Joseph.

The discovery of more documents relating to his reign becomes, therefore, a matter of peculiar interest and importance. If Zoan appears to have been the residence of the Pharaoh of Joseph, it was certainly a favorite city of Ramses II., the oppressor of the Israelites, and of their successors. He in fact restored and built here with lavish splendor. Here, therefore, if anywhere, may be expected the records of the later as well as of the earlier period of the Hebrew sojourn. Here, also, we may hope to solve another problem in Egyptian history, and to discover whether the priest-kings, in whose family vault was found the great trouville of royal mummies at Deyrel-Bahri, were or were not a Tanite dynasty. This question is also Biblically interesting, for it concerns the alliance and marriage of Solomon, and the rise of his opponent, Shishak, the founder of a new family, which continued the embellishment of the shrines of Zoan.

The city of Zoan was not only the chief city of the Delta during the most interesting of two or three thousand years of Egyptian history, but it was the key of the northeastern frontier, the great center of border history, and the seat of government nearest the land Goshen. No site in Egypt, or in the whole East, is known to be so rich in buried monuments, numbers of which just show themselves on the surface of the mounds. None, certainly, is richer in historic promise.

THE BEST CULTIVATED COUNTY IN AMERICA.

One of the very best cultivated counties in the whole Republic is said to be Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, originally settled by Menonites, Moravians, and Dunkers, who fled from Germany and Holland to avoid persecutions during the eighteenth century. They were mining and agricultural people, and their descendants to-day follow the same callings that their ancestors did. Lancaster was laid out in 1729, and was the fourth county in the State. It contains 928 square miles; the value of the farms is estimated at about $80,000,000, of its agricultural products nearly $20,000,000, and its mineral some $16,000,000. The population is about 226,000. The farms are small, from 50 to 100 acres generally. A farm of 200 acres is very rare. These are seldom sold. They are handed down from sire to son. These people are among the most industrious, thrifty, and conservative of our country. They have changed very little during the last 150 years, preserving the same language, habits and customs that they had a century ago. They work hard, pay their debts, prosper materially, and attend to their own business. If the American people, generally, understood farming, and the principles of economy as they do, this country would be better cultivated and possess a higher degree of prosperity.—Selected.

WHAT "WIFE" MEANS.

Says Ruskin: "What do you think the beautiful word, 'wife,' means? It is the great word in which the English and Latin languages conquered the French and Greek. I hope the French will some day get a word for it instead of 'femme.' But what do you think it comes from? The great value of the Saxon words is that they mean something. Wife means 'weaver.' You must either be house-wives or house-moths, remember that. In the deep sense you must either weave men's fortunes and embroider them, or feed upon and bring them to decay. Wherever a true wife comes, home is always around her. The stars may be overhead, the glow-worm in the night's cold grass may be the fire at her feet, but home is where she is, and for a noble woman it stretches far around her, better than houses ceiled with cedar or painted with vermillion—shedding its quiet for those who else are homeless. This, I believe, is the woman's true place and power."

CHILDREN'S FRIENDS.

I know that children's company is apt to make some trouble to a home-mother, but it is the kind of trouble that pays. It makes children so much happier to have their little friends made welcome at their own home. It raises mother in their esteem to have other little folks think she is "nice." Children are sharp little critics; form their opinions and speak of them to others, quite as decidedly as their elders do.

A little girl, who had displeased her mother, was "punished" by having her little playmate sent home with sharp and angry words, which were entirely unmerited. The heart of the little visitor was greatly shocked at the rude blow to her spirit, and never, even to grown-up years, could look at that woman except with aversion. She was an excellent woman in the main, but she had her "cross spells," like some others we know. Every person appears at his worst when such spells are on.

It is an excellent thing to know with whom your children play and how they deport themselves. If they are made welcome at your home, you have the very best opportunity for gaining this information. It need not be very irksome if you keep the number within bounds. In Summer our little visitors like to sit with their playthings in the shady porches, or in the doorway. In cold weather they can have the warm dining-room. If disposed to run over the house it is sufficient to say decidedly: "Don't run up stairs, please, just play in the dining-room," and I have never known a child to disregard the request.

It is worth a great deal to make children happy. They remember little treats longer than we suppose. A lady once said that one of the pleasantest recollections of her childhood was that of sitting on a grassy bank, and of a fair hand reaching from a window and placing a handful of large, delicious strawberries in her lap.

I often set out a plate of sandwiches, cookies, apples, or whatever is handiest in the pantry, and then let the little girls arrange them to suit themselves on their little straggled tea-set. A little coffee and sugar and milk in their small dishes make their happiness complete.

Be a lady to your boy's friends and leave a good impression upon them, if you wish to retain the respect of your own dear boy. It hurts boys' feelings, and mortifies them intensely, to have mother speak snappishly to them before companions, making them feel that they are not wanted. Such boys are apt to wander away, with most resentful feelings, to seek such company as the mother would dread to have for their associates. But whom should she blame most for it?

ADVICE IN BRIEF TO DYSPEPTICS.

Avoid pork, fat meats, grease, gravies, pastries, spices, confectioneries, tea, coffee, alcoholic drinks, beer, malt liquors of all kinds.

Let your food be plain, simple, wholesome—chiefly fruits and vegetables. Let your bread be made of unbolted wheatmeal.

Take your meal regularly; if three, let the supper be very sparing.

Eat slowly, lightly, masticate thoroughly. Be-ware of hot food and drinks.

Avoid luncheons by all means.

Exercise freely in the open air; never sit moping, but turn your mind entirely from your disease and trouble.

Keep regular hours; rise early; exercise gently half an hour before breakfast.

Bathe frequently; keep the skin clean, the pores open.

Keep your feet dry; let the soles of your shoes be thick, that no dampness may penetrate them.

Keep your sitting and sleeping rooms well ventilated. Impure air is enough to kill a well person—it kills thousands.

Wear loose-fitting garments, especially about the region of the lungs.

Banish the pipe, quid, and snuff-box as the plague, forever and forever. Of all the dyspepsia breeders and promoters, nothing exceeds the use of the "Indian weed."

Keep away from the apothecary; avoid all quack medicines and nostrums.

Finally, keep a conscience void of offense; pray God to forgive your past sins of gluttony and intemperance; for no one who lives temperately, as he should live, will ever be troubled with dyspepsia. The violation of law cries out for vengeance—and vengeance it has sooner or later.—Phrenological Journal.

A RULE FOR TELLING DATES WITHOUT AN ALMANAC.

First, observe the first seven letters of the alphabet are used, in their order, to represent the seven days of the week. Next, commit to memory the following names: Andrew D. Day, Geo. B. East, Gordon C. Fay, Adam D. Feast.

The first, or initial letter of each name represents, in its order, the first day of each month of the year: thus, A represents January 1st, D February 1st, D March 1st, and so on. These always remain the same.

Next, observe what Dominical (Lord's Day or Sunday) letter or letters are used for the year. They are generally given in the first part of our almanacs. The Dominical letters for 1884 are F and E. (Leap years always require two, one for January and February, and one for the remaining ten months.) Thus, having the Dominical letters we are ready to tell dates.

Suppose we desire to know what day of the week the 6th of January, 1884, will be, we just bear in mind that the first initial is A, hence the first letter will be A, second B, third C, fourth D, fifth E, and sixth F. Finding the Diminical letter for January and February, it follows then that the 6th will be Sunday. Again, should it be desired to find on what day the 4th of July will fall, we look for the initial letter of the seventh, and we find it to be G. We also remember that the Lord's Day letter for the last ten months of 1884 is E. Then, if G is the 1st, A will be the 2d, B the 3d, C the 4th, D the 5th, and E the 6th, which is Sunday; then, if the 6th is Sunday, the 4th will be Friday. Again, suppose we want to know on what day of the month the fourth Sunday in June will come. We find the sixth initial to be E, it is also the Lord's Day letter, hence, the 1st will be Sunday, add seven and the second Sunday will be the 8th, the third the 15th, and the fourth will be the 22d of June.

In like manner proceed with each and all the months. It must be borne in mind that leap years have two Dominical letters—one for January and February, and one for the other ten months.

If any should desire to ascertain the Dominical letters without looking at an almanac he can do so by using the above named letters backward. Thus F and E for 1884, D for 1885, C 1886, and so on. When A is reached return to G.

I have arranged and present the above with a view that it may be of benefit to travelling ministers and others, when an almanac is not at hand. When one becomes familiar with this rule, or any similar one, he can often ascertain the day of the week or of the month before he could open an almanac and find it there.

HOW TO SPOIL A CHILD.

1. Begin by giving him whatever he cries for.
2. Talk freely before him about his great smartness.
3. Tell him he is too much for you, that you can do nothing with him.
4. Let him learn to regard his father as a creature of unlimited power, capricious, and tyrannical—or as a mere whipping-machine.
5. Let him learn (from his father's example) to despise his mother.
6. Do not care who or what his companions may be.
7. Let him read stories about pirates, Indian fighters, and so on.
8. Let him roam the streets in the evening and go to bed late.
9. Devote yourself to making money, remembering always that wealth is a better legacy for your child than principles in the heart and habits of life; and let him have plenty of money to spend.

PERFUME OF PIETY.

The staff of a printing office were once surprised and delighted by a delicious perfume which suddenly filled every part of the room. Upon inquiry, it was found that one had passed through the office who, being constantly occupied with sweet spices and odorous drugs, became literally saturated with fragrance. The consequence was, that wherever he went, he diffused a delicious sweetness, evoking such surprise as: "Where has the man come from?" "What is the secret of this sweetness?" This illustrates the fragrance of the Christian as set forth in Psalms xiv. 8: "All thy garments smell of myrrh and aloes and cassia."

THE DAY AND YEAR OF CHRIST'S CRUCIFIXION.

Judge Bradley, of the Supreme court, has contributed to the Evangelist an article on the day and year of Christ's crucifixion. The work is thoroughly done by analytical historical analysis and astronomical calculations. The Judge says:

"The cardinal conditions required by these data, are, first, that the time must be brought within the Procuratorship of Pontius Pilate; secondly, it must be after the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius, and after the thirtieth of Christ's age; thirdly, it must occur on the 15th of the Jewish month Nisan (or Abib), and on the sixth day of the week, or Friday.

The Judge states the verified history very carefully, and says:

"John's preaching commenced in the year 26, and Jesus was baptized and commenced preaching at the end of 26, or beginning of 27. His first Passover, after he commenced his public ministry, would be either that which took place in the spring of 27, or that which took place in the spring of 28. It is certain that the crucifixion could not have taken place earlier than A. D. 28, and it is not probable that it took place earlier than A. D. 31.

"Matthew tells us: 'Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the Disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him: Where wilt Thou that we prepare for Thee to eat the Passover?' etc. (Matt. 26: 17.) Luke says: 'Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the Passover must be killed. And he sent Peter and John, saying: Go and prepare us the Passover that we may eat, etc., (Luke 22: 7, 8.) Then followed the Last Supper and Gethsemane; and the next morning (the 15th of Nisan, of course) Jesus was condemned and crucified.

"I shall assume that the day was the sixth day of the week, or Friday—the day preceding the Sabbath, the preparation day. That is almost the universal understanding of Christendom. There are some, it is true, who contend for some other day, just as there are some who say that Shakespeare did not write the plays that go by his name. But I will not stop to argue the point.

"We are able to find, then, a year from 28 to 31 inclusive, in which the 15th, and of course, the 1st, of Nisan, fell on Friday.

"Taking the Roman Calendar as the standard of comparison, and the longitude of Jerusalem (35 degrees, 18 minutes, 30 seconds east) as the point for regulating time, and midnight as the commencement of the day, it was found by calculation, based on the ordinary astronomical tables, that the vernal equinox in the former half of the first century occurred in the afternoon or evening of the 22nd of March. Therefore the full moon of Nisan ought not to happen before that day, and the preceding new moon ought not to happen before the 7th of March. Therefore the new moon, marking the 1st of Nisan, must happen between the 7th of March and the 7th of April."

A table of calculation is made, from which it is apparent that in A. D. 27:

"The new moon, which occurred on the 26th of March, was first visible, (according to Selden's rule) on Thursday evening, March 27, when the 1st of Nisan commenced, and continued until sunset of Friday evening, March 28th. For our purpose the 1st of Nisan was Friday, March 28th. And in like manner, attending to the respective times of new moon in the other years contained in the table, it is equally apparent that the 1st of Nisan occurred in A. D. 28, Tuesday, March 16th; in A. D. 29, Monday, April 4th; in A. D. 30, Friday, March 24th; in A. D. 31, Tuesday, March 13th; in A. D. 32, Monday, March 31st; in A. D. 33, either Friday, March 20th, or Saturday, March 21st (uncertain which); in A. D. 34, Wednesday, March 10th; and in A. D. 35, Tuesday, March 29th. The moons here taken for the month Nisan exactly agree with the cycle before referred to.

"Thus we see there were only three years from A. D. 27 to A. D. 35, inclusive, in which the 1st of Nisan, and consequently the 15th of Nisan, happened Friday; and these were A. D. 27, 30 and 33, the last of which is very doubtful. But we have already seen that the Crucifixion could not have happened before A. D. 28, and probably not later than A. D. 31. Therefore the year 30 is the only one which satisfies all the conditions of the problem. It does satisfy them, because it gives opportunity for Jesus to teach publicly for about three years, and to attend three Passovers during his ministry, or four, according as it commenced before or after April, A. D. 27.

"Now, since in A. D. 30 the 1st of Nisan fell

TRUE FRIENDSHIP.

Money can buy many things, good and evil. All the wealth of the world could not buy you a friend, nor pay you for the loss of one. "I have wanted only one thing to make me happy," Hazlitt writes; "but, wanting that, have wanted every thing." And again, "My heart, shut up in the prison-house of this rude clay, has never found, nor will it ever find, a heart to speak to." We are the weakest of spendthrifts if we let one friend drop off through inattention, or let one push away another, or if we hold aloof from one for petty jealousy, or heedless slight or roughness. Would you throw away a diamond because it pricked you? A friend is not to be weighed against the jewels of all the earth. If there is coolness or unkindness between us, let us come face to face, and have it out, quick, before love grows cold. "Life is too short to quarrel in."

TO ATTAIN LONG LIFE.

He who strives after a long and pleasant term of life must seek to attain continual equanimity, and carefully avoid everything which too violently taxes the feelings. Nothing more quickly consumes the vigor of life than the violence of the emotions of the mind. We know that anxiety and care can destroy the healthiest body, we know that fright and fear, yes, excess of joy, become deadly. They who are naturally cool and of a quiet turn of mind, upon whom nothing can make too powerful an impression, who are not wont to be excited either by great sorrow or great joy, have the best chance of living long and happy after their manner. Preserve, therefore, under all circumstances, a composure of mind which no happiness, no misfortune, can too much disturb. Love nothing too violently; hate nothing too passionately; fear nothing too strongly.

THE HABIT OF UNTRUTH.

Some men seem to have a constitutional inability to tell the simple truth. They may not mean to lie, or tell an untruth, but they are careless—careless in hearing, careless in understanding, careless in repeating, what is said to them. These well-meaning but reckless people do more mischief than those who intentionally foment strife by deliberate falsehood. There is no firebrand like your well-meaning busybody, who is continually in search of scandal, and by sheer habit misquotes everybody's statements.

This carelessness is a sin of no small magnitude. A man's duty to God and his fellows requires him to be careful. For what else were brains and common sense given him? Of course that other class, the malignant scandal-mongers who take fiendish pleasure in promoting strife, who deliberately garble men's words, and twist their sentiments, is in the minority, and people have a very decided opinion regarding them. Most men misrepresent because they do not seem to think that care in speaking the truth is a pre-eminent duty.

The effects of this careless misrepresenting of others is seen everywhere. Its effects on the individual is to confirm him in a habit of loose, distorted and exaggerated statement, until telling the truth becomes a moral impossibility. No other thing causes so many long-standing friendships to be broken, so many dissensions in churches, so much evil everywhere. It is an abuse that calls for the rebuke of every honorable man—a rebuke that should be given, not only in words whenever occasion demands, but by example.

The Persians were said to teach their youth three things: to ride, to draw the bow, and to speak the truth. A little more instruction on this head would do no harm to our "advanced civilization."

WHAT FATHER TAKES.

"What will you take to drink?" asked a waiter of a young lad who, for the first time, accompanied his father to a public dinner. Uncertain what to say, and feeling sure that he could not be wrong if he followed his father's example, he replied, "I'll take what father takes."

The answer reached his father's ears, and instantly the full responsibility of his position flashed upon him. If he said, "I'll take ale," as he had always said before, his son would take it also, and then! And the father shuddered as the history of several young men, once promising as his own bright lad, and ruined by drink, started up in solemn warning before him. Should his hopes also be blasted, and that open-faced lad become a burden? But for strong drink, they would have been active, earnest, prosperous men; and if it could work such ruin upon them, was his own lad safe? Quicker than lightning these thoughts passed through his mind, and in a moment the decision was made. "If the boy falls, he will not have me to blame," and then in tones tremulous with emotion, and to the astonishment of those who knew him, he said, "Waiter, I'll take water;" and from that day to this strong drink has been banished from that man's table and from that man's home.

UNCLAIMED RICHES.

There is a story told of an old Indian who was welcome wherever he was known, who lived a miserable life by begging. A kind settler, who knew him well, asked him what it was he carried about his neck. He said that it was a charm to keep away evil spirits and disease. On opening the old leather cover of the charm, the settler found a regular discharge for the Indian from the Revolutionary army, and a certificate in the writing of George Washington that would entitle him to a pension every year, and to many years of back pay. He supposed himself to be a poor, miserable beggar, and here was a fortune for him. So we go on. The promises and engagements of God's Word are worthy of princes. They would make of us kings and priests and sons of God. And yet we live in pinching spiritual poverty. Let us look up our unclaimed possessions, and inherit the promises.

INFLUENCE OF A HOLY LIFE.

There is an energy of moral suasion in a good man's life, passing the highest efforts of orator's genius. The seen but silent beauty of holiness speaks more eloquently of God and duty than the tongues of men and angels. Let parents remember this. The best inheritance a parent can bequeath to a child is a virtuous example, a legacy of hallowed remembrances and associations. The beauty of holiness beaming through the life of a loved relative or friend, is more effectual to strengthen such as do stand in virtue's ways, and raise up such as be bowed down, than precept, command, entreaty or warning. Christianity itself, I believe, owes by far the greater part of its moral power—not to the precepts or parables of Christ—but to His own character. The beauty of that holiness which is enshrined in the four brief biographies of the Man of Nazareth, has done more, and will do more, to regenerate the world and bring in everlasting righteousness, than all the other agencies put together. It has done more to spread His religion in the world, than all that has been preached or written on the evidences of Christianity.—Chalmers.

SHEDDING ONE'S SKIN.

No animal is exempt from the operations of the law of desquamation. Birds shed their feathers annually, serpents their skins, quadrupeds their hair, and lobsters and crabs their shells.

So it is with humanity. The skin, instead of being thrown off annually, as with those referred to, is all the time wearing off, and therefore constantly being renewed.

The scarf skin is insensible. It is the true skin or cutis vera what the rough, scaly bark of a tree is to the vitalized coat immediately under it. In the use of our hands, feet and ordinary exercise of the body, fragments of skin are constantly rubbed off, so that it may be truly said every living person is always shedding that tissue.

If that process were interrupted, as it is partially, by some who neglect to avail themselves of the benefits of water, the pores become clogged, and their utility in the preservation of health destroyed. Thus the actual amount of scarf-skin dropping off, rubbed off, and washed off in a year, would be about equal to the thickness and weight of a thin sheep-skin.

There no fires that will melt out our drossy and corrupt particles like God's refining fires of duty and trial, living as he sends us to live, in the open field of the world's sins and sorrows, its plausibilities and lies, its persecution, and animosities and fears, its eager delights and bitter wants, if we still keep him in view in all.—Bushnell.

If you would have a faithful servant and one that you like, serve yourself.—Franklin.

ELDER JOHN W. PURSLY.

The subject of the following sketch was born in Botetourt county, Virginia, in the year 1825, and, at the time of his death, which occurred July 31st, 1883, was fifty-eight years, five months, of age. Little is known of his early life, except that he was a sober, intelligent, and industrious young man, quietly and energetically working in the various occupations common to country life. His educational opportunities were very limited, and he never received more than the simplest instruction in reading, writing, and the elements of Arithmetic. This, in after life, was a source of regret to his many friends who felt that his remarkably good mind would have been much strengthened, and his human powers for good largely increased, could he in early life have received a liberal education. But circumstances would not allow this blessing, and the necessity for the most unremitting toil, for the support of himself and family, under which he labored to the close of his life, made it impossible for him to do much in the way of self improvement. God only knows how much the church and the world has lost, because of the great numbers of young men of superior intellectual endowments who, for the want of means and opportunities, are denied the blessing of an education, and are compelled to spend their lives in comparative obscurity and drudgery. At the age of twenty-five he united with the Methodist Church, and continued for ten years a faithful and useful member of that fraternity. Up to thirty-three years of age he had little or no acquaintance with the Brethren, but about that time he read "Nead's Theology" which made a deep impression on his mind. About the same time, also, the brethren of the Botetourt church, in the prosecution of their missionary labors after the old fashion, commenced a series of meetings in an old church, not far away, and upon hearing their presentation of the Gospel, as we understand it, the favorable impressions already made upon his mind by reading Nead's works, were strengthened and confirmed. From this point he invited them to preach in Bethesda church, in his own immediate neighborhood, where, at his earliest opportunity, he dissolved his connection with the Methodist communion and joined the Church of the Brethren.

The Botetourt missionaries, principally Elders Peter Nininger and B. F. Moomaw, now grown gray in the Master's service, continued their preaching at this place, and, from time to time, "added to the church such as should be saved."

Two years after his baptism brother Pursly was elected to the ministry and, at the age of thirty-five, began his life work. I have known brethren to be elected to the ministry in middle or after middle life, to be greatly discouraged by the reflection that their best days, and all the precious opportunities for self-improvement and profitable exercise in the Master's work, were past, and they had now nothing to offer the Lord but a mind trained in every other channel, and set in every other mold but that of the ministry. In youth the mind is pliable and elastic, but after middle age it is full grown and fixed in its habits, and cannot be easily made to flow into new and altogether different channels of activity. It may not be out of place here to remark, that it is a very common and serious fault of some of the churches to neglect, if not altogether discourage, early talent, and many who should long ago have been active and efficient in the ministry, are overlooked and held back, perhaps, till middle age.

But brother Pursly was not daunted by the peculiar difficulties and discouragements of his situation. Left to defend and build up the church where it was little known, and in the midst of a host of enemies, he threw himself into the work with the most commendable zeal, energy, and self-denial. Progress was made, and triumphs were achieved in the face of the greatest difficulties, and in spite of the most virulent opposition. Every conceivable slander which opposition could invent, and every species of annoyance, even to flagrant violations of personal and corporate rights, were employed against the infant church and its members; but, in the good providence of God, the gates of hell did not prevail against it. In the year 1866, six years after his election to the ministry, the church was fully organized under his care, and the first communion held. Considering his opportunities, and the difficulties he had to encounter, the results of his fifteen years labor were gratifying and remarkable. Into his church one hundred and fifty-two have been received by baptism, and six by letter, making a total membership of about one hundred and twenty-six souls. Some have removed to other parts, and many gone into the Church triumphant, sustained in their last moments by the everlasting consolations of the Gospel, through the untiring and effectual ministry of the beloved subject of this sketch.

Thus we may see how a life entirely consecrated to God is a power for good, and, though surrounded by the most unfavorable circumstances, will not fail to produce the most glorious fruits, and achieve the grandest success.

At different times efforts were made to build a house of worship, but, on account of the isolated position of the church, and the comparative poverty of its members, they uniformly failed until the spring of 1883, when a plan was adopted by which, in a few weeks, the sum of $800 was contributed, and the work of building begun. This was largely due to the liberality of conservative members of the Botetourt and Roanoke churches, and may be properly considered as a testimonial of the great esteem in which brother Pursly was held by them. Often, upon communion occasions, the old Valley church had re-echoed with his earnest voice, and vast congregations had been held spell-bound by his powerful and spiritual discourses. Much of the spiritual life of that people is due to his teaching, and they were glad of an opportunity to testify their appreciation and make some suitable return. The good man was more than rejoiced at the result, and immediately set about the work of building. But about this time he seemed to receive a premonition of his approaching end. Physical disorders of long standing, originally caused and constantly aggravated by hard labor, and exposure in his daily work, and in the vigorous prosecution of his ministry over an extended field, began now to be serious and alarming. Walking over the intended site of the proposed new church one day with a deacon brother, who had long been his trusted confidant and counsellor, and the companion of his travels and labors, he expressed the opinion that his life and pilgrimage was drawing to its close, and gave some directions as to his affairs in the event of his being called away. Sadly enough for the church, and all who were bound to him by natural or spiritual ties, it was no passing dream, but the shadow of the solemn reality which did not long delay. He was soon prostrated by a complication of maladies, but bore his protracted and painful illness with Christian patience and fortitude. True to one of his most prominent characteristics, he thought not of himself, but his Master's work.

For himself he had no fear or concern, but was anxious about the building of the church: and his last intelligent utterances were upon that absorbing subject. Soon after, his redeemed and sanctified soul forsook its feeble earthly tenement, and soared to the eternal world. "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints," "for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Our task would not be finished without giving an outline of the most prominent features of his well rounded character, by which he was distinguished. His mental endowments were naturally of the highest order, and, though he was denied the benefits of a good education in early life, yet he tempered and sanctified his mind by a diligent study of the Bible, and such good books as Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress." There was about him no marked peculiarity or eccentricity. His faculties were all finely balanced. He was characterized by sound judgment: penetration: firmness, united with great moderation: deep earnestness, and unswerving perseverance: evenness and placidity of temper: deep piety and purity of life. His most prominent spiritual graces were charity and humility. If all who belong to the church loved it as he did, and had at the same time his meekness and lowliness, there would be no schism or discord in the sacred body. He appeared to the best advantage in the church meeting, reconciling some difference between members, reclaiming and restoring (not cutting off) some erring brother or sister, and pouring out of the deep fountain of his loving heart, the most earnest and edifying exhortations I have ever heard. He was among them as a father among his children, and ruled well, without seeming to rule at all. Nothing was more remarkable, or more edifying to contemplate, than his untiring, unremitting zeal and faithfulness. His monthly circuit comprised a distance of one hundred miles, and this he rarely ever failed to accomplish.

When once an appointment was made, neither cold nor heat, nor storm, nor rain, nor mud, nor snow and ice, could discourage or deter him. When duty called, no question of personal convenience or comfort was ever allowed to interfere. Rather than disappoint a congregation he would, if necessary, walk to his most distant appointments, and many a time the midnight hour has found him on the road. But this excessive labor and exposure told all too soon on his constitution, and now, when it seems that the church, in the hour of her trouble, can least afford to spare her noblest sons, we mourn his loss. But the inscrutable ways of Providence are wise and right, and though we may never more in this world look upon that noble, earnest face, lit up with that loving, benevolent smile, we may see him again, and meet, never more to part, in the kingdom of heavenly glory.

B. C. MOOMAW.

WHAT IS A HOME?

It requires more than a place in which one resides to make a home. That place may be very fine, supplied and adorned with every thing that can please the eye, or gratify the taste. It may possess every requisite enjoyment, and every resource for the necessities of life, and yet have no true home feeling, or home enjoyment in it.

It is the warm and genial affection; the tender sympathy; the interest in each other's welfare; the constant effort to please; the avoidance of all unkindness, severity, and apparent injustice in domestic intercourse; these and kindred traits and qualities make the habitation of the family a home indeed. Such a habitation may be humble, its luxuries few, its resources limited, but it has the vitality, the attraction of home, and binds to itself by that attraction all the members of the household. Its light gilds all the darker shades of life, and its sanctity hallows the memories of the past, when years are fled, and that habitation is the seat of domestic life no more.

It is sad to think how few real homes the world holds. And all the sadder because where there are so few, there might be so many. How small an amount of kindness, of forbearance, of tender sympathy and sincere solicitude, of approval, of soft words, of little arts to make the household attractive, something designed and adapted to each one, would transform a Babel of strife into an Eden of love, and make many a family residence now cold, comfortless, and wretched, a genuine home, where happiness dwells.

When it is considered how much the character of the individual, and all his future course, depends upon the character and influences of his early home, the matter assumes new importance, and imposes new responsibilities on all parents, to secure a true home for their children. Let it be plain and poor, if need be; but let it be a home. Let its attractions draw them, its attachments bind them to it. However destitute of other things, let them not lack a home.—Mother's Journal.

SABBATH RAIN.

What is there about Sabbath rain that renders it so disastrous to our congregations? The church that I attended last Sabbath is usually well filled, but the sprinkling in the morning made some seats vacant, and the rain in the afternoon thinned out the house, as if it had been a pestilence, carrying two out of every three men, women, and children. Rain on no other day or night produces such effects. Look at our market men, our merchant men, our laboring men, our pleasure-seeking men and women too. How few of them ever turn aside for any other rain except Sunday rain? So far as my own experience goes; and it goes some way touching this subject, I have not found Sunday rain any wetter or more pestilential or dangerous to health, than rain at any other time. It may not be the duty of every one to go to the house of God through rain and snow storms; some are in feeble health and able to go only in fair weather. Still, does not a fearful account await many who are seen in the sanctuary only in fair weather?

There is food for much reflection in the Arab proverb, "All sunshine makes the desert."

To correct an evil which already exists is not so wise as to foresee and prevent it.

THE OLDEST BIBLE MANUSCRIPTS.

The two most ancient manuscripts of the Bible known are the Codex Sinaiticus of the Imperial Library at St. Petersburg, and the Codex Vatican Library at Rome, both are believed to have been written about the middle of the fourth century, A. D. The Sinaiticus, so called before it was obtained (in 1859) from the convent of St. Catharine on Mount Sinai, is supposed by Tischendorf, its discoverer, to be one of the fifty copies of the Scriptures which the Emperor Constantine directed to be made for Byzantium in the year 331, under the care of Eusebius of Cæsarea. It consists of very fine vellum, made either from the skins of antelopes or of asses, each leaf being $14\frac{7}{8}$ inches high by $13\frac{1}{2}$ inches wide. The early history of the Vatican manuscript is not known, but it appears in the first catalogue of the Vatican Library in 1485. It is a quarto volume, containing 146 leaves of fine thin vellum, each $10\frac{1}{2}$ inches high and 10 broad. Both manuscripts are written in Greek uncials, or capital letters, are without spaces between the words, and have no marks of punctuation.

Wisdom is oftentimes nearer when we stoop than when we soar.—Wordsworth.

Sun dials mark only the bright hours. Would it not be well if most people could imitate them.
